

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The invention provides a system and method for dynamically pricing charter air charter services. The invention receives information regarding a traveler's itinerary, develops a demand forecast, matches the demand and dynamically
 5 adjusts pricing based upon the received information. The invention also provides a series of methodologies that minimize flight costs through efficient excess capacity allocation, demand modeling, forecasting and matching techniques.